

Go do research in the UK

Professor George Fleming Scholarship Fund

The objective of the Professor George Fleming Scholarship Fund is to provide assistance to talented students of the Faculty of the Environment. The scholarship obtained by a selected student is intended to cover expenses connected with a short-term attachment at EnviroCentre in Glasgow in conjunction with University of Strathclyde.

EnviroCentre is a multi-disciplinary team of environmental consultants providing development, sustainability and catchment management services to a wide range of public and private sector organisations across the UK and Ireland.

Find more at www.envirocentre.co.uk

Contest

The selection procedure is carried out once a year, and the length of the short-term attachment can vary from 3 to 12 months. The applicant must provide: an application whose integral part is a curriculum vitae and a brief motivation letter in English, the required period of the short-term attachment, as well as study results achieved in the previous year at the Faculty (to be obtained by the student from the Study Office). The scholarship amounts to EUR 1,300 per month. The interview is in English.

Selection Stages

The first round of the selection of applicants for the Professor George Fleming financial assistance is ensured by the Vice-Dean for Foreign Affairs of the Faculty of the Environment. In the second round, Professor Fleming decides on awarding the assistance, and he also determines the length of the short-term attachment.

Apply Now!

The selection procedure for the academic year 2008/2009 will be held at the Faculty of the Environment on Thursday 23rd October, room 211. Please tell your interest to Mr. Martin Neruda till 17th October.

Ing. Miroslav Richter, PhD., EUR ING.
Dean of the Faculty of the Environment